Program focus

This program is designed to give students an awareness of the evolution of international relations, particularly relating to the culture and history of selected states. Students will gain an understanding of international relations issues, and the ability to analyse key process and phenomena, such as globalisation. Study of an approved Language Other Than English (LOTE) is a required feature of this program.

Career opportunities

There are careers available in the public service, ethnic affairs and immigration, foreign and defence affairs, business, international trade and tourism and teaching (with additional qualifications).

Professional accreditation

Graduates can apply for membership of the Australian Institute of International Affairs.

Program aims

Program objectives

On successful completion of the degree students should be able to demonstrate:

- the ability to express themselves with clarity and coherence
- basic standards in computer literacy
- an awareness of international relations both in theory and the practical application of theory
- an awareness of the culture and history of selected states and actors, an understanding of selected issues of international significance and of the evolution of the foreign policy of Australia and selected states
- the ability to identify, understand and solve problems
- an introduction to a Language Other Than English (LOTE)

- the ability to meet the specified aims and objectives of those majors chosen as part of the international studies degree
- an understanding of ethics in both the domestic and international environments.

Admission requirements

Admission to the Bachelor of International Studies is in accord with University admission guidelines for undergraduate programs, including successful completion of Year 12 or equivalent.

International applicants must have met the University's English language requirements or have completed the University's ELICOS/EAP programs.

Program fees

Commonwealth supported place

A Commonwealth supported place is where the Australian Government makes a contribution towards the cost of your higher education and you as a student pay a student contribution amount, which varies depending on the courses undertaken. You are able to calculate the fees for a particular course via the Course Fee Finder. Commonwealth Supported students may be eligible to defer their fees through a Government loan called HECS-HELP.

Domestic full fee paying place

Domestic full fee paying places are funded entirely through the full fees paid by the student. Full fees vary depending on the courses that are taken. You are able to calculate the fees for a particular course via the Course Fee Finder.
