Program aims

The program aims to provide opportunities for professionals with the appropriate entry qualifications to gain postgraduate qualifications and enable them to critically review literature to address theoretical and practical questions and issues in their workplace field, and to design and implement projects to further investigate these questions and issues. An essential feature of this program is that participants continue their employment while undertaking projects which integrate disciplined enquiry with complex practical work issues.

Program objectives

Successful completion of the program will enable graduates to:

- demonstrate analytical, critical and creative thinking in workplace applications;
- postulate directions for the investigation of unsolved problems in their workplace;
- undertake and write reports on projects relating to their workplace in a professional manner;
- demonstrate a high level of skill in identifying, choosing and implementing procedures appropriate for addressing hypotheses;
- demonstrate an awareness of the limitations of their projects and manage these limitations;
- demonstrate a high level of skill in assessing and addressing ethical/confidential concerns in their study and related work activity;
- report the results of their projects concerning changes to their workplace in a manner appropriate to their audience; and
- develop a workplace-based learning plan that integrates theory and practice.

Admission requirements

To be eligible for admission, applicants must satisfy the following requirements:

Admission is by completed online application and interview. To be considered for entry, an applicant must normally possess a bachelor degree from an Australian university or equivalent, and have the equivalent of at least five years' experience in their field. Anyone wishing to gain entry to the program on the basis of equivalent qualifications and/or experience should contact the University for consideration for admission on this basis.

All students are required to satisfy the applicable English language requirements.

If students do not meet the English language requirements they may apply to study a University-approved English language program. On successful completion of the English language program, students may be admitted to an award program.

Program fees

Domestic full fee paying place

Domestic full fee paying places are funded entirely through the full fees paid by the student. Full fees vary depending on the courses that are taken. Students are able to calculate the fees for a particular course via the Course Fee Finder.

Domestic full fee paying students may be eligible to defer their fees through a Government loan called FEE-HELP provided they meet the residency and citizenship requirements.

Australian citizens, Permanent Humanitarian Visa holders, Permanent Resident visa holders and New Zealand citizens who will be resident outside Australia for the duration of their program pay full tuition fees and are not eligible for FEE-Help.

International full fee paying place

International students pay full fees. Full fees vary depending on the courses that are taken and whether they are studied on-campus, via distance education/online. Students are able to calculate the fees for a particular course via the Course Fee Finder.
